Take in the Thanksgiving Ball at Rogers' hall.

Subscribe for the News, only one dollar from now until Jan. 1st, 1891.

A night school is being organized in this village with Mr. Jamison as instructor. Particulars later.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bock, Thursday Nov. 14th, a nine pound boy baby. Mother and child are doing well.

We are prepared to print Auction bills any size or in any quantity; give us a call, and we will save you money on this line of work.

The Detroit Free Press and this paper four months for 35 cents, to new subscribers. Send in your cash subscriptions to this office.

Geo. R. Olcott, Dentist of Antioch will be at the office of Dr. E. F. Schaffer, Gray's Lake, the 1st and 3d Tuesday of every month.

What's the matter that we can't all go to Burlington? Wilmot Witness. Dead broke, walking bud, and no railroad pass, is what's the matter with us Bro. Riggs.

Call at this office and get a Sample Copy of the Detroit Free Press. We give them away, in order that our friends may see the paper, and take advantage of our liberal clubbing offer.

There will be a grand Thanksgiving Ball at Rogers' hall in this village, Thursday evening, Nov. 28th. Music by Slocum's band of Harvard. Tickets including supper $1.50. Everybody cordially invited.

Our correspondents will confer a favor upon us by sending in their items so as to reach the office on Tuesday as we are obliged to close our forms Wednesday afternoon in order to get out the edition for Thursday morning's mail.

W. L. Farmer retires from the editorial management of the Lake County Call and the paper will in future be conducted by W. A. Harris, a gentleman of 25 years experience in the newspaper business; we wish Bro. Harris abundance of success in the journalistic arena.

Mrs. Thomas Webb, mother of A. D. Webb of Hickory, died at her home Sunday the 17th inst. and was buried Tuesday. Mrs. Webb was well advanced in years, and had been sick for some time past. One by one from out our midst, the still hand of death leads the old settlers.

We have made arrangements with the Detroit Free Press whereby during the months of October and November we will furnish a copy of The Free Press and this paper four months to new subscribers for the nominal sum of 35 cents. Send in your subscriptions and get two papers for a little more than the cost of one.

The lecture, "Do the Cowboys have horns?" at Chinn's hall Saturday evening was attended by a fair sized audience, and listened to with marked attention. Owing to the dancing school on the same evening the attendance at the lecture was not as large as it merited, or could have been desired, but those who did attend were amply repaid by the graphic and somewhat humorous description Mr. Thomas gave of his experiences on the Western cattle ranges. As a speaker Mr. Thomas is pleasing, and at times quite eloquent and humorous.

The Lecture, "Do the cowboys have horns?" by Rev. Lewis Thomas at Chinn's hall Saturday evening was attentively listened to by quite a fair sized audience, and was fully appreciated. Owing to the dancing school on the same evening the attendance at the lecture was not as large as it merited or could have been desired, but those who did attend were amply compensated by the graphic and somewhat humorous description Mr. Thomas gave of his experiences on the Western cattle ranges. As a speaker Mr. Thomas is pleasing, and at times quite eloquent.

The past few days have been quite pleasant.

The Waukegan papers report Diphtheria abating in that city.

S. B. Russell has purchased of B. F. Van Patten the lot that the tin shop stands upon; consideration, $250.

The Wilmot Woodmen have ordered a new carpet for their hall, and will fix up things in fine shape for their meetings.

The old gray horse familiarly known here as Old Dan, owned by Frank Little of Dakota, formerly of this place, died recently by accident.

Last Saturday afternoon 23 of the friends and neighbors of A. J. Felter turned out, and helped him to secure a goodly share of the "golden corn."

A. Chinn will be home from Iowa, Thursday or Friday of this week, with a car load of new milch Cows; any one desiring such, will do well to see him on his return.

Mr. Jamison will organize a night school at Chinn's hall, this Thursday evening. Call and take a term, it will be of benefit to you in reviewing some of the lessons taught you—years ago.

During the present season, Peete Overton has made 1,175 gallons of Sorghum. This is a pretty big run, can any one beat it? Remember the above is fact, and facts, not fancy, count in this case.

Editor Riggs of the Journal is trying to boom the matrimonial market by inviting everybody to go to Genoa Junction to get married. Wonder if "the old man" isn't a candidate for J. P. this spring.

Thanksgiving one week from today; if you have turkey give thanks to the Giver of all Good; if you have the prime dollar hidden somewhere in your clothes come around and give it to the editor and he will give thanks, and perhaps have turkey for dinner; otherwise, we will have to feast upon—promises, which some people seem to think are equivalent to payments.

We are in receipt of a communication in which the writer takes us to task for our extravagant suggestion that Congress should pass a law for the purpose of re-rating the pensioners of the late rebellion, in which the writer goes on to say that with the present high taxes, and the innumerable burdens placed upon the people "it would be an injustice to allow Congress to enact a law for the benefit of a privileged few, at the expense of the many."

Our correspondent is evidently a little off on the matter of taxation, as not a dollar of direct tax goes to support the government, it being maintained wholly by revenue derived from manufactured articles, in which tobacco and liquors form the greater part, in addition to import and export duties, under our present existing tariff laws. The direct taxation as paid to the tax collector annually goes to support the State, county, town, district school, road and bridges; but not a cent goes to the General Government; so much for taxation. Again our correspondent says: "the soldiers have been amply compensated for their service to the country, most of them having gone to the war from purely selfish motives, in which patriotism played a very unimportant part, the greatest incentive being the big bounties and promises of governmental protection." This last unjust fling at the Union Soldier, like the "hand writing upon the wall" is too evident to be mistaken, and clearly reflects the character of the man, who to-day is at heart as big a traitor to the free institutions of America as when in 1861 he openly sympathized with armed rebellion, and in 1864 declared the war a failure.

Frank Brown came home from Portland Saturday with a train load of sheep. George Booth is building feeding sheds 270 feet long, which he says he will keep full of sheep for one year. He has a lot of lambs and sheep which he is now feeding for market. He has a large force at work on his sheds, which will be completed in a day or two.

Lake Villa Locals

Mr. Edwards is still very low.

Mr. Webb who has been quite sick is convalescing.

Mr. and Mrs. Boutwell spent Sunday in Chicago.

Mr. Thacker is unpacking a fine stock of Christmas goods.

Mr. Fred Finer of Waukegan made this place a flying visit last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Strang spent Saturday and Sunday in the city with Mr. Strang's sisters.

Mr. Sabin of Ivanhoe was at Lake Villa on Saturday attending the teachers' meeting.

Mr. Pender is moving a house from Grubb Hill onto a lot recently purchased of Mr. Burnett.

A gentleman from Lake Forest, a graduate of the school there has been engaged to teach the Sand Lake school.

Mr. and Mrs. Welburn are re-joining over a young lady stranger who has come to live with them. She is just a week old and has come to stay.

Huber Bros. have fitted up the carpenter shop for a store down stairs and dwelling rooms above. They have as fine a line of painters materials as can be found in the county. They have also built a work shop where they are prepared to do sign painting etc. Just give them a call and see their beautiful work.

I wonder if all the people in this vicinity know they can hear as fine a sermon at the Centennial church every Sunday morning as is preached in any of the city churches. Mr. Taylor the pastor is as easy and fluent a speaker as one could wish to hear. If you don't believe this just go to church and hear him and judge for yourself.

Who are all those good looking ladies and few scattering gentlemen that were promading our streets on Saturday last? Why don't you know they were the leaders of education in the northwestern part of Lake Co. and represented a class of people who are toiling up the road of fame and drilling their souls in patience by teaching the "Young Idea how to shoot."

At a teachers' meeting held at this place Saturday, over 80 teachers were present. After remarks by Supt. Marvin, a teachers association was formed, including the teachers of the north-western part of the Co. Miss Irene Kennedy was chosen President, and F. N. Gaggin, Sec. The association meets on the second Saturday of each month, at Lake Villa. It is hoped that all the teachers will take an interest in the work of the association, and aid in advancing the educational interest of the county.

County Superintendent Marvin met the teachers at Strang's Hall Saturday Nov. 10th to organize an association. The day being fair, the hall was not exactly crowded, but a good crowd assembled and organized a society which they did not name but which we for convenience might call the "Shingle Agitators," was formed. They elected Miss Kennedy of Millburn as President, and Mr. Gaggin of Antioch as secretary. The society is to meet the second Saturday of every month at Lake Villa; a programme will be prepared by the officers, and it is expected that a very interesting as well as profitable time will be spent this coming year.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Wesley Gray of Lake Villa, was a caller at our office Tuesday.

Wm. Barnstable of Fox Lake, was a caller at our office Saturday.

S. M. Clark of Gurnee, was visiting with his son George, a few days, during the fore part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mattor of Salem were in our village Saturday and made the News office a short call.

Gus Sugar came home on a visit to his family Monday, and returned to his position in the telegraph office at Byron, Wis., Tuesday.

Mr. A. Burke and Wm. Burke were in Chicago Friday attending the funeral of Thomas McCarty, and made a short visit with friends in the city.

SILVER LAKE NEWS.

Frosty nights.

R. Dixon went to Bristol Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Mathews went to Burlington Saturday evening, returning Sunday morning.

Close your cellar windows and get your stove in running order for winter will soon be upon us.

Another new residence is going up in Silver Lake. Herman Karow is building a house on the corner lot, west of the depot.

Mr. Odell the Agent at Camp Lake has returned and again resumed his old occupation, viz. that of station agent. Glad to see you back George.

Mrs. W. O. Allen the wife of Station Agent Allen is visiting her relatives and old acquaintances at Wrightstown, the former home of Mr. Allen; she will also stop on her return at Fondulac a few days with her parents.

GAGE'S LAKE.

Thanksgiving is coming. Hurrah for the roast turkey.

Our school has commenced with Miss Davis as teacher.

Mr. James Taylor has returned from his trip to the west.

Mr. Henry Barron will teach the Avon Center school this winter.

Miss Lizzie Chard is spending a few weeks at her brother's in Chicago.

Messrs. McCluney, Smith and Ridner spent a few days at Mr. Chard's last week.

Mr. Bert Phelps of Chicago spent a few days at his uncle's last week. Miss Phelps is still quite sick.

Mr. Main preached here last Sunday on account of the absence of Mr. Griffith who was visiting his home in Michigan.

Mrs. H. W. Higley will have a sale at her place about two miles east of here and will move to her new home in Libertyville.

MORNING STAR.

GRASS LAKE.

Frank Herman is sick; Dr. Karr is attending him.

Rob Selter and wife visited at his sister's Mrs. Edd Lux of Wadsworth.

County Surveyor Westerfield was surveying at Wm. Ramaker's Saturday.

H. J. Middendorf has been on the sick list, but is able to be around again.

Mrs. L. A. Paddock has been quite sick for the past few weeks but is better at present.

Sol LaPlant built a chimney at Wm. Ramaker's Saturday on the annex to his hotel; it is all ready for the inside work.

Bob Grice will teach the Grass Lake school this winter. That's what we want, a good teacher, and hope school will commence soon.

Henry Herman is back from the city where he has been taking lessons on the Violin; if he keeps on improving he will soon be among our best Violinists.

Last week there were twelve hunters at the Herman house, and I think that the largest display of ducks that has been seen at one time were to be seen there. It's appropriately named the "Hunter's Home."

Mrs. Ward Little (nee Herman) of Dakota, and little son Arthur Clyde are in Chicago, and are expected at her parents home every day; all her old friends will be pleased to welcome her back to Ills. and hope her visit will be a long one. Her brother Albert came back with her; he has a farm out there. Welcome Albert.

CHANNEL LAKE.

Joseph Savage and wife took in Chicago last week.

Mrs. Ella Blair of Ringwood is visiting at Mrs. Charles Smith's.

The brick kiln is burned and they have a nice lot of brick and tile for sale.

Gifford Bros.' new barn is finished and they are to work on the addition to their hotel.

The husking bee at A. J. Felter's was well attended, there being about 24 in attendance.

Mr. Felter has built a new stoop and otherwise improved the looks of the front of his house.

By the way, Ziv has had an attack of brain fever caused by the over-exertion of a weak brain in his last laborous effort as Lake Street correspondent.

THE KID.

TREVOR, WIS.

Nat Beasley is sick at the Booth House.

Sam Stewart has a two weeks vacation from his school.

Mrs. Taylor and Miss Stewart are having a good trade in dress making.

Miss Evans was married last week to Mr. Fellows of Pikeville; a very quiet wedding. Long life to the happy couple.

L. A. Havens went to Chicago to consult with the physician last Saturday. His health is rather poor, but hopes are entertained of his recovery.

There was a large arrival of sheep last week 2000 head being unloaded here last week by Butler & Anderson from Oregon and Washington Territory.

The Wisconsin Central and Northern Pacific are running through coaches from Chicago to Portland, Oregon, and are doing a large freight business.

We have been having very fine weather, and the farmers are nearly ready for winter. The ground has been so dry that not much fall plowing has been done.

A Call Upon the Maharajah of Nepal.

We had now been at Khatmandu ten days, when the long-wished-for word came that General Runodee Singh, the Maharajah of Nepal, would be pleased to see us on the following day. Accordingly, at the appointed hour we called at the palace, and after passing several sentries with loaded muskets and drawn swords, were ushered into the audience hall. It was a long room, fitted up with mirrors, chandeliers, and English furniture generally. The Maharajah was seated on a chair in the center of a semicircle composed of his most distinguished officers, the majority of whom were in military uniform, and all resplendent in their jeweled attire.

The Maharajah looked like a man of sixty with a decided will of his own. He had sharp eyes and a firm lip, but to judge from all accounts he was not at all equal in abilities or liberal ideas to his brother and predecessor, the late Sir Jung Bahadur. Our call, growing less formal the longer it was extended beyond all regulation limits, proved most interesting. Seated as we were next to the Maharajah, we wished to converse with him directly, and for this purpose we should have had recourse to the Hindostanee language as our medium of communication; but the nephew of the Maharajah, General Khudgo Sham Shere Jung, who had been educated at Devon College, Calcutta, wished to air his English, and insisted on our addressing our remarks through him to his uncle. The latter, however, getting warmed up with the conversation, dispensed with his interpreter, and plied us directly with all sorts of questions about England and America, the latest fashions, and the reason for our coming to Nepal. At length we started to take our leave, and asked permission to visit in the city, and call on any of his subjects. Our requests were no sooner made than granted, and then, as if to delay our departure, the Maharajah showed us about the palace, and finally recognized our farewell salutes by presenting us with the regular tokens of Oriental courtesy.

In connection with calling. They were "pas suparee," or bits of the arca-nuts done up in a splay leaf with lime, the whole covered with silver-fool, and ready for putting into the mouth. We are splashed with rose-water, our handkerchiefs scented with all of sandal-wood, and we are graciously invited to call again.—Henry Ballantine, in Harper's Magazine.

A Word-Counting Machine.

A telegraph operator in Minneapolis has invented a word-counting machine which may be used by itself or attached to a typewriter. It is much the same sort of thing as a pedometer, only it is more accurate. It is as large as a small clock. The works are inside the nickel case, on one side of which is the face. The machine will count up to 2,500 words, and can be used for any number of times it passes the 2,500 mark. There are two hands like the hour and second hands of a watch. Every time a word on the typewriter is finished the same motion which spaces for the word registers on the word counter. When the second hand counts up to twenty-five words the large hand moves forward a quarter of a space. The face is divided into twenty-five spaces, one for each hundred words, and a glance at it shows at once how many words have been written.

The use of the word counter is not limited to typewriting machines, but it can be used in writing and in dictation by keeping it at hand and making a slight pressure at the end of each word. Some operators attach it to their desks and work it with a string fastened to their feet. It is a useful invention, especially in telegraphy, and in making an article of a specified length.—New York Sun.

"Do you really and truly believe in eternity, Mr. Andover?" "Parson Andover (firmly)—Yes, I do; I don't believe the Creator would have permitted one of his creatures to begin work on the Keely motor without providing time for him to complete it.—Dur-dette.

Miss Travis—O, I'm so glad to meet you this morning, Mr. De Smith. De Smith—You charm me! But why? Miss Travis—Why, do you know, I am trying to get up a donkey party, but we find it extremely hard to discover suitable persons. You will come, won't you?—Burlington Free Press.

The writer of a book on dancing estimates that eighteen waltzes are equal to about fourteen miles of straight work. The fatigued girl, too languid to help her mother about the house, can do eighteen waltzes in an evening when she wishes to be particularly agreeable.—New Orleans Picayune.

There are several ways of addressing a woman, according to her several stations in life. If she is married, without children, praise the husband. If she is a mother, praise the children. If she is not married, but engaged, praise the betrothed. If she is fancy free, praise herself.—Montreal Gazette.

"What is wonderful about you?" asked the visitor of the museum. "Can you crush a cart-wheel between your thumb and forefinger or make your chest big enough to hold the crown jewels of England?" "No, I'm the strongest man who hasn't preached a sermon on 'Robert Elsmere.'"—New York Sun.

Mrs. Youngwife (tearfully)—Charley has been just as cross and mean to me for the last week as he can be. I sometimes almost wish that a woman could have some revenge under such circumstances. Mrs. Parvann (significantly)—You know how to make angel cakes, don't you, my dear?—Burlington Free Press.

Wife (who wants a tailor-made suit, but has only hinted at it)—"Did you notice Mrs. De Pink's figure?" Husband (who smells a rat)—"Yes, poor woman; she has no figure at all, and, like other women of that sort, has to depend on talcum powder suits. Now you, my love, are a babe to anything."—New York Weekly.

Wife—"Going to be out late again, are you? Why can't you let your books go and take me to the theatre? Isn't there anything going on that I would like to see?" Husband (glancing at the set of his necktie)—"No, nothing but spectacular dramas and burlesques and ballets and things like that."—Philadelphia Record.

Winks—"Must leave early to-day. I met a lady who was an old schoolmate of mine, and she was so anxious to see my family that I invited her to accompany me home to tea." Minks—"My gracious! Your wife will raise the roof." "O, no! My wife is quite pretty, and this lady is exceedingly plain."—Philadelphia Record.

Mrs. Gabb (who thinks her boy will grow up into a famous orator and great statesman)—I just wish you could hear my boy talk. He has the right straight ahead from morning to night. He doesn't stop a minute. What do you think he is going to be? Mr. Winks—Well—er—I dunno; a barber, maybe.—Philadelphia Record.

A PLAGUE of monkeys afflicts Tanjore, in southern India, and a reward is paid for their destruction.

PROFESSOR FRANK STORCH has taught 23,000 persons at Reading how to dance. It took him fifty-three years to do it.

The idea of having an "old" slipper specially made to order to throw after a bride appears to be a New York fancy.

CHINESE are arriving at Mazatlan, Mexico, in great numbers, and are making their way to California and Arizona overland.

An Allentown, Pa., tailor has invented a "shoulder protector," to prevent the powder on the girl's face from soiling the young men's coats.

ONE of the detectives set to finding Cronin's clothes was Coughlin, now on trial for Cronin's murder. It is very curious that he did not find 'em.

A MAINE town which sees the coming reform has just built a new town house and has fitted it with rooms for the Australian balloting system.

THE chief thoroughfares and public places of Rome are to be illuminated by electric lights, the power for generating which is to be obtained from the famous Tivoli Falls.

LARGE deposits of excellent hard coal have recently been discovered in Alaska and on some of the coast islands. The quantity is believed to be practically inexhaustible.

A MAN in Sierra County, Cal., who killed a neighbor's steer to save his own family from starving, declined counsel, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to one year in the State prison.

A VERY dilapidated envelope, which had evidently gone through a railroad wreck, was received at the West Chester, Pa., postoffice a few days ago. Within its ragged embrace it held a $4,000 check.

A REMARKABLE "sink" exists in Bradford County, Pa. It is 200 yards across, perfectly round, with smooth sides, and the water is 100 feet below the surface. No bottom has ever been found. The sink is surrounded by beautiful shade trees.

THE sum of $400,000 has been paid over by the provincial government to Father Turgeon, representing the Jesuit order in Canada, in consideration of the order's total and perpetual abandonment of claims to the estates which became the property of this crown when the order was suppressed nearly a century ago.

At a recent sale of antique furniture in New York was a pair of old ormolu candleholders that were once owned by Lafayette. They stood about three and a half feet high and represented Cupid. The figures stood on short pedestals of twisted fluted work and gave a very pleasing effect. The bidding began at $75 and rose rapidly to $150, $200 and $225 each.

The following is an extract from a real composition written by a small boy in New Jersey. The subject given by the teacher was the extensive use of "Man." Here's what the small boy wrote: "Man is a wonderful animal. He has eyes, ears, mouth. His ears are mostly for catching cold in and having the carache. The nose is to get smells with. A man's body is split half way up, and he walks on the split ends."

A New South Wales tobacco is being introduced. It is a mixture of British herbs and the particular plants are kept secret—and smokers who have tried the compound declare it to be deliciously fragrant, slightly exhilarating and without any ill effects to the nerves. Combined with ordinary tobacco it is said to make a blend as satisfactory as that of chicory with coffee, but such a blend is illegal and punishable by very heavy fines. At present it is prepared in Scotland under the name of "herb tobacco," and it is rapidly growing in favor.

The Suez Canal Company of France has made a contract with the government of Guatemala for the construction of a northern railroad, which will be united to the northern, or rather central line of Guatemala. This work is of great importance to Guatemala and all Central America, as well as to all who do business on the Pacific coast, since it establishes interoceanic communication across the isthmus. The French company advances $21,000,000 for this purpose and the establishment of a bank. Both enterprises will be controlled by the Guatemalan government.

THAT malignant enemy of children—the diphtheria—is again prevalent in various localities. Dr. Field, a celebrated physician of England, when the disease raged in that country, several years ago, was very successful in treating it by the application of a simple remedy. He used nothing but common flour of sulphur—a teaspoonful mixed with the finger in a wine glassful of water, given as a gargle. In ten minutes the patient was out of danger, and the doctor never lost a case of the disease. In extreme cases, where a gargle was not practicable, dry sulphur was blown down the throat through a quill, and was equally effective.

"Our paper is two days late this week," writes a Nebraska editor, "owing to an accident to our press. When we started to run the edition on Wednesday night as usual, one of the guy ropes gave way, allowing the forward glider to fall, and break as it struck the flunkier. This of course; as any one who knows anything about a press will readily understand, left the mug plank with only the flunkier to support it, which also dropped and broke off the wapper. This loosened the flunkier between the ramrod and the flunkier, which also caused trouble. The report that the trouble was caused by over-indulgence in intoxicating stimulants by ourself is a tissue of falsehoods, the peeled appearance of our right eye being caused by our going into the launchway of the press in our anxiety to start it, and pulling the coupling pin after the flunkier was broken, which caused the flunkier to rise up and welt us in the optic. We expect a brand new glider to be sent this afternoon's train."—Chicago Tribune.

WEDDING.

A wedding was celebrated on Nov. 19th, at the home of the bride's parents in Grinn Lake. The bride was Miss Julia Yopp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Yopp of Antioch, the bridegroom was Mr. Richard Wilton the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilton of Antioch. The marriage took place at Wilmet Wis. Bridesmaids and bridesmen in attendance, Miss Nellie Burnett and Mr. Eugene Wilton, also Miss Minnie Knoll and Mr. Andrew Ellinger. After the Nuptial Knot being tied, a few pleasant jokes exchanged concerning England and Germany, they then hid away to the wedding feast held at the bride's parents' Mr. and Mrs. Barney Yopp, where they found a bountiful table in waiting; the guests with one accord complimented Mrs. Yopp for the good cooking, previous to partaking of the bountiful repast the invited guests began to assemble, of which the total number was three score and ten. As no officiate was present with power to turn water into wine for the marriage feast, six kags of beer and two boxes of cigars were purchased as a substitute. All parties present now partaking of a good dinner. After dinner games of different kinds were introduced, such as music and cards in which "Old Kentucky Rye, John Barleycorn and Assistant Hops" took a prominent part.

The bride and bridegroom return many thanks and their best wishes for the costly presents so freely given, of which all will be useful as well as ornamental. The following is the list of presents received: One extension table Mr. Thomas Wilton, one clock and set of drawers, Mrs. Thomas Wilton, one comb and glass, Mr. Arthur Wilton, one bed and bedstead, Mr. Barney Yopp, two table cloths and towels, Mrs. Barney Yopp, one carpet and set of sauce dishes, Wilton Bros., Rattlebox and rubber ring, Wilton and Ellinger, one pair towels and bed spread, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wilton, one set of glassware, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cobb, one pair towels and salt set, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herman, one table spread, Mr. Andrew Ellinger, one dozen napkins, Miss Minnie Knoll, one table cloth, Mrs. John Yopp, one set silver knives and forks, Messrs Joseph and Charles Yopp, 15 dozen plates, Honny Yopp, one five dollar bill, Mr. and Mrs. John Grimm, one set of tea cups, Mr. Henry Grimm, one set saucers, Miss Anna Grimm, one set of plates, Miss Lena Grimm, one butter dish and knife, Mr. Steven Winchell, one cake stand, Mrs. Mary Ann Kilmer, one set sauce dishes, one pair towels and chamber, Mr. Charles Heil, one wash bowl and pitcher, Miss Nellie Burnett, one cake stand, Miss Ada Burnett, one dozen napkins, Mr. Charles Richards, one set sauce dishes, Mr. Henry Herman, one sauce dish, Mr. Frank Herman, one bed spread, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Selter, one table cloth, Miss Nettie Selter, one bed spread, Messrs Alfred and Elmer Sickles, one wine pitcher, Miss Lena Slusser, one half dozen glasses, Mr. Irving Paddock, one bedroom set, Messrs John Perkins and William Burke, one dozen napkins and lamp, Mr. Solomon LaPlant and Miss Alma Savage, one dozen napkins, Mr. Charles Wilton, one looking glass, Mrs. Potter, one chair, two Lillie Wilton, one pin cushion, Hattie Robinson.

Dancing had now become the order of the evening, and a fine handsome, healthy looking boy of young people tripped the light fantastic to the beautiful notes of the Grinn Lake Orchestra, until the early hours of morning, when the moon arose to light the way all hid to their homes, hoping to enjoy another wedding in the near future.

A Just Criticism.

A gentleman recently returned from a drive through the country towns of New York asserts that he has not yet much objection to a cottage that is consistently Queen Anne all through, but he evinces a strong antipathy to those houses—and their name is legion—"that are Queen Anne in front and Mary Anne at the back."—Harper's Magazine.

Insomnia.

Texas Siftings.

Gentle reader, you may have a wife who is a virgin, a mother-in-law who is a bad egg, from away up the mountain, a son who is a dude, a daughter who chews gum, you may have a burning, burning bunion on your soft pink feet, a two-story boil on your manly back, a corn between your toes; you may be out of work, out of friends, busted, and forty miles from a free lunch; you may be possessor and holder in fee simple of all the ills except one, that flesh is heir to, but if the one ill that is not yours is insomnia, rear blithely upon your hind legs and carol forth glad peans of joy, for you are in bigger luck than a boy with his first trousers. Let your note go to protest, see your name marked n. g. in Bradstreet's, eat cold suppers on wash days and none on Sundays, and despite these things be as happy as a big buck nigger with a brass watch, if insomnia has not clapped its sleepless eye upon you. But if you have the earth and the fullness thereof, and insomnia hants you, you had better be in Sheol, Guthrie or Oklahoma (they are much the same) with your back broken, for there is naught of joy or gladness or peace for you upon the earth.

Insomnia comes upon us in the silent and stilly watches of the night, and it camps on our retired frames and sticketh closer than a wet flannel shirt. One goes to his couch yawning and sleepy, and just as the world is slipping from his material sense and he begins to walk in the shadowy land of dreams, he hears a dog bark, and in a second is wider awake than he has been all day. He thinks of the business he did that day—what a good sale he made to old Tuffer—and then he wonders if all his shirts came home from the laundry or if that dad-binged Chinaman faked one.

From the shirts his mind wanders to Barrett and what a strutting, crowing-hen sort of an actor he is and—But Great Scott! this will never do. To sleep, to sleep! and again he woos in vain the drowsy goddess. He tries to put himself to sleep by counting up into big numbers, but always loses the place before he reaches 100 then he remembers that some idiot has written to count imaginary sheep jumping a stile will send one to sleep, and he begins to count, but before the sheep get fairly started they begin to perform the most extraordinary gymnastic feats, now jumping so high they never come down, now getting all tangled up with each other, and before the insomnia knows it he has forgotten all about the sheep and is thinking of the little blue eyed girl he was so much in love with four or five years ago. Confound the girl! he wants to forget her and go to sleep.

Suffering Moses! but how the nerves in his wrists are thumping, and how hot his eyes feel! He rolls over on his side and for a moment listens to the fusillade of snores that is going on in all the rooms around him, and then his thoughts go to wool gathering again, and finally he gives it up as a bad job, gets up, puts on some of his clothes and reads till daylight, and just as he has got to bed again and goes to sleep the hired girl nearly kicks the door off the hinges waking him up, and then all day he looks as if he had been on a campaign bus.

It is not whiskey, or women or ambition or greed or lust for power that is sending so many men down "the primrose path that leads to the everlasting bonfire"—it is insomnia.

Washington Letter.

(From our regular Correspondent.)

Washington D. C. Nov. 16, 1889. Ex-President Cleveland's visit to Washington last week to witness the Bayard-Clymer wedding was a time singularly significant. He came back to Washington for the first time since the close of his administration with his party in the flush of a splendid victory. His call upon President Harrison was the call of a victor upon a vanquished foe, for of course Mr. Cleveland insists upon taking a personal view of the result in Iowa, Ohio and Virginia and attribute it all to the growth of the tariff reform movement throughout the country. President Cleveland has grown much touter, in fact enormously and distressingly fat, since last March. He must weigh over three hundred and fifty pounds. His wife, on the other hand, is more winsome than ever. The haggard, drawn look of the society leader is gone. No care rests on her.

Another man who takes a purely personal view of the result is Corporal Tanner, who was the head of the Pension Bureau for a shorter time than any bureau or cabinet officer ever reigned before. His status during the defeat of the Republican party is due to the treatment he received from the administration. He sees in the result the hand of Divine Power operating for the overthrow of the enemies of the elect. No more gigantic self sufficiency was ever seen.

Among the Department clerks small details of republican faith the belief that President Harrison is largely to blame for the defeat is manifest. He has succeeded in making hundreds of distasteful appointments throughout the country and he has withheld from appointing good ones. Post-master General Wamamaker's disregard for men who have done good party service and appointments of men recommended solely by religious societies is also given as a potent cause for the evident dissatisfaction among Republicans. Mahone's defeat is secretly regarded with satisfaction. Mahone has belied the respect for the confidence of the republican leaders apart from Quay and Dudley. Virginia is essentially a Democratic State and the only way to carry it for the republicans is to spend a mint of money and give every man in the state who will not work for his living a clerkship in the departments here. This has been substantially the plan and only the occasional restraining influence of the civil service law has made victory for Mahone impossible.

The news of the Goodloe-Swope tragedy so effected the President that he dropped the book he was reading to the floor. I knew Col. Swope and Col. Goodloe well. The latter was much the abler man, an orator, a man of wide travel and quick observation, of deep learning and a vast knowledge of men, but Col. Swope was by no means a mediocre man. Both were thoroughly liked and the constant watching of their friends to avoid any accidental meeting of their enemies during President Harrison's inauguration was a matter of common knowledge. A cab drove to the main entrance to Wilton's last night and a tall man alighted and telling the waiting porters that the baggage was all coming on the wagon "doncher know" passed through the swinging doors and up to the desk. The gas light fell upon his blonde whiskers, blonde clothes, a great plain cape coat, a big diamond earring, a pearl and an emerald ring. The clerk, a grizzled veteran in the business, was charmed. The stranger wrote on his register, "Sir William Mackenzie" and "Sir Roger Mackenzie and wife." He ordered a parlor and three chambers with private bath rooms, and added that Sir Roger and his lady would arrive by the next train from New York and that everything be prepared and of the best. The clerk was overwhelmed. Nothing as gorgeous had been seen in that hotel since the war. So when a moment later Sir William remembered that he must send a telegram and "by jove hadn't a pound about him," the clerk joyfully handed him a twenty dollar bill from the cash drawer. Remember that this clerk has been in the hotel business for twenty years, and then hogues lord—say rather king of check—passing through the telegraph office and driving out into the night to be seen of that clerk no more. The same individual played the same game at three hotels in less than an hour and the police have not found him yet.

Vice President Morton takes with becoming good humor the scolding criticism of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at their Chicago convention. He simply says that in giving permission as a property holder for the use of his hotel for the purpose of a good business man. There is not a big class hotel in Washington without a bar and wine served at table. There were formerly two small temperance hotels conformed by ladies, but one of these bankrupted two months ago and the other is really only a coffee house with a few rooms attached for the semi-social guests. The importance of a hotel bar is not alone in its direct profit, it helped custom for nine tenths of the richer hotel guests will not stop at a caravansary that is without a bar.

One Man's Ups and Downs.

It is wonderful what changes of fortune come to an energetic man in New York City. One day, some time ago, I met an acquaintance who had a large store, where he did a paying business. A few months later I met him again. He asked for a small loan to buy his breakfast. He had indorsed notes for a friend, and had become bankrupt. Still later I casually ran against him when he had just finished a contract for building water-works for a country town, and was reveling in wealth. When I next saw him his finances had again run down to nil, and he was in desperate straits for money. But his luckstar rose again, and I heard of him building a railway for some capitalists. The last time I saw him he had just finished a block of apartment houses up town and had a large bank account.—New York Star.

The Rich Jewels of a Hindoo Prince.

Mr. W. S. Calne writes from India of his visit to the Maharajah of Baroda. "We were," he says, "taken to the old palace, in the heart of the city, to see the treasure room. The huge cheetahs, carefully guarded, were on the palace steps, used for hunting bucks. The regalia of Baroda is valued at $3,000,000. We were first shown the jewels worn by the Maharajah on state occasions. These consist of a gorgeous collar of 300 diamonds, the value of them as big as walnuts, arranged in five rows, surrounded by a top and bottom row of emeralds the same size; the pendant is a famous diamond called 'The Star of the Deccan.' An algette to match is worn in the turban; then the regalia of the Maharajah of Mysore, a magnificent necklace, graduated from the size of a pea to a large marble; wondrous rings, necklaces, clusters of sapphires and rubies as big as grapes; and, great marvel of all, a carpet, about ten feet by six, made entirely of strings of gold and colored pearls, with great central and corner circles of diamonds. This carpet took three years to make, and cost $200,000. This was one of Khande Rao's mad freaks, and was intended to be sent to Mecca to please a Mohammedan lady who had fascinated him. But the scandal of such a thing being done by a Hindoo Prince was too serious, and it never left Baroda. We were also taken to see two galls, weighing 280 pounds each, of solid gold, with two companions of silver, the ammunition wagons, bullocks harness, and ramrods being all silver. These were made at the order of Mahar Rao, to take the shine out of Khande Rao's carpet. I suspect the present Maharajah would like nothing better than to coin them down into good money and build the Technical School, which is one of his dearest hopes."

A Prince's Wit Not Appreciated.

Officers in the German army must always be arrayed in uniform, even when they are on leave, unless special permission has been granted to dispense with the garb, and this is a favor seldom to be obtained. The emperor, who has recently issued an order, however, allowing them to dress as they please when "hunting, shooting, or mountain-eering." It lately struck Prince Frederik of Lippe, who is an officer of hussars, that the sport of hunting must have been forgotten when this order was drawn up, so he thought it would be a good joke to write a formal letter to the war office to announce that he was going out from Danzig for a couple of days, traveling in the Baltic, and asking whether it was necessary that he should wear his uniform during the trip, as he had observed that a dispenser was allowed only when officers were shooting, hunting, or mountain-eering.

The Dress of Samoan Women.

The costume of the women is somewhat scanty, owing to the warmth of the climate, but for comfort and ease of movement could hardly be surpassed. They wear two garments, the "tepetia," which might be called the waist of the gown, and the "lala-lara," answering to the skirt. The tepetia is simply a long piece of cloth or other material, the width of the shoulders of the wearer, with a hole cut in the middle for the head. It extends nearly to the knees in front and behind, and of course leaves the arms and sides exposed. The tepetia is the special pride of the wearer, and is made of many pieces of the most brightly colored calico, cloth or silk. The lala-lara consists simply of a square of cloth or fine mat wound around the body and fastened at the waist by tucking one end inside the first fold—a constantly slipping out during frequent readjustments. If the weather be warm the "tepetia" is slipped off and carried over the arm. Bonnets, shoes, and stockings are almost unknown, and indeed in this delightfully warm climate they are unnecessary. On Sundays, however, the Samoan and elderly women wear a loose, flowing gown unconfined at the waist, and occasionally the most gorgeous kind of bonnets. The men usually wear but one garment in addition to the ordinary brooch cloth—a large piece of cloth or "tapa" fastened around the waist, or enveloping the whole body in cold weather or on occasions of full dress.—A Naval Officer.
